

Ine Van Hoyweghen

#

Ine Van Hoyweghen is Professor Sociology of Science, Technology & Medicine at KU Leuven where she directs the Life Sciences & Society Lab. Her work explores the social, regulatory, and ethical dimensions of EU biomedical science innovation, with current projects focusing on governance of digital data, patient participation in science and medicine, and the role of solidarity in medicine and healthcare. Van Hoyweghen is founding chair of the Belgian Science, Technology & Society Network (B.STS), member of the Royal Flemish Academy of Belgium for Science and the Arts (KVAB) and member of the Belgian Advisory Committee on Bioethics, advising the government on science, technology and society issues.