

Migle Laukyte

Migle Laukyte is a Tenure Track professor in cyberlaw and cyber rights at the Law Faculty of the University Pompeu Fabra in Barcelona (Spain). Before coming to UPF, she was a CONEX-Marie Curie fellow, at the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid (UC3M) and a Max Weber Postdoctoral Research fellow at the European University Institute (Florence, Italy). Her research interests are legal, ethical and philosophical questions related to AI, robotics and other disruptive technologies: in particular, the impact of these technologies on human rights, ethics of technology, philosophy of law and our understanding of agency, personhood, autonomy and risks.

Currently Migle is a member of the European Group on Ethics in Science and New Technologies (EGE), a member of EBP Expert Group on Blockchain Ethics (EGBE), as part of European Blockchain Service Infrastructure (EBSI), a member of the Directive Board of "Gregorio Peces-Barba" Institute of Human Rights, UC3M.

Migle is also coordinating the PhD program in Law at the UPF.
